

APPEAL REFUSED BY JUDGE COLE

Bond Forfeiture in Case of Bill Mann Will Stand

The appeal was brought before District Judge S. Cole, Friday, when the court of Justice S. C. Cole, was denied by Judge Cole on the ground that he lacked jurisdiction.

The appeal was an attempt to set aside the forfeiture, ordered last week by Judge Cole, set aside. The appeal was brought by Mann. After Justice Cole had denied the appeal, Mann and his counsel appeared before him and requested the forfeiture set aside. He refused and the case was appealed.

In explaining his refusal to act in the case, Judge Cole said that he had no jurisdiction to set aside the forfeiture. He said that the forfeiture was a matter of law, and he had no power to set it aside. He said that the forfeiture was a matter of law, and he had no power to set it aside.

Therefore, Judge Cole said, the forfeiture was without jurisdiction in the case, and for the same reason, the appeal was without jurisdiction. He said that the forfeiture was a matter of law, and he had no power to set it aside.

Bill Mann was arrested here December 1 of last year on a fugitive warrant. It was charged that he was a companion of Jerome Clemens, a Deering, Kan., bank robber, who immediately made a $5,000 bond which was signed by W. A. Greenwood and G. C. Upton.

When the case came up for hearing before Justice Cole, Mann was arrested in Creek county on a charge of investigation. His failure to appear before Justice Cole was the basis for the forfeiture.

After Mann's arrest here, his papers had been honored by Sheriff Robertson and the Kansas sheriff went to Sapulpa to get him. But because the requisition was signed by Tulsa county, Mann was immediately released under habeas corpus proceedings and is still free.

It is reported that he is in Creek county.

Clemens was arrested shortly after Mann was taken into custody and the authorities succeeded in getting him back to Sapulpa for trial. He was convicted and sentenced to 10 years in the state penitentiary.

Man was brought against the bond in the county attorney and is now sitting in district court. The case probably came up for hearing the next civil docket.

RECEIVE APPLICATIONS

A committee appointed to sit Applications for Secretary, J. Burr Gibbons, Fred W. Ingham and Frank H. Greer were named on committee Friday by Alva J. Niles, president of the Chamber of Commerce, to receive applications for the position of secretary of the chamber of commerce to succeed Dr. L. Reeves.

Niles explained that since Colonel Reeves turned in his resignation, a number of letters have been received from applicants, and that a committee should be appointed to receive them. No action toward filling the vacancy is to be taken until new officers of the chamber of commerce are elected. No meeting of directors is to be held next day, which is in the midst of the holiday season.

MORSE TO OPEN BOOKS

Decides to Let Government Look Over His Accounts; Books Are to Go Before Grand Jury

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.—Charles W. Morse, New York shipbuilder under fire for his wartime activities, today agreed to turn over the books of all his shipping concerns for examination by the federal grand jury probing his operations. Morse also agreed to waive immunity rights, which he has previously demanded. This action was taken when Morse's attorneys asked the District of Columbia court for permission to withdraw a petition filed yesterday in which the shipbuilder asked an injunction against use of his books in the probe. It was stated that the books probably would be taken before the grand jury tomorrow.

They are held at present by the United States district attorney here.
